BIOGRAPHY

Sandy White has assumed inactive status at the bar and is a retired partner of White & Jankowski. He resides on a small hay farm near La Veta, Colorado, and sometimes visits the firm's offices in Denver. The firm and its clients continue to benefit from his over forty years of experience as a water, environmental and land use lawyer.

Sandy has tried over one hundred complex cases (each with between 15 and several thousand parties and each lasting several weeks to a year), settled many more, briefed and argued roughly 30 cases before state and federal appellate courts, including the United States Supreme Court, served as a Master Referee for the Colorado water courts, acted as an expert witness in his areas of specialty, trained as a mediator, taught in law and graduate schools, and authored over three dozen articles, papers and books. He is a frequent speaker at professional programs (over 100 in 17 states), and is the past chairman of the Water Law Section and of the Environmental Law Section of the Colorado Bar Association. In recognition of his skill and integrity Sandy has earned AV Preeminent® ratings from Martindale-Hubbell® and has been included in The Best Lawyers in America® in the field of water law, and recognized in Colorado Super Lawyers®. He is also a recipient of the "Water Buffalo" award given by the Water Law Section of the Colorado Bar Association.

He and his wife of almost 55 years have three grown children and seven grandchildren. In the past his community service included participation and board membership in the Boy Scouts, his church, a school board, a water district, alumni organizations and an environmental institute, in addition to a variety of other charitable organizations and activities. Currently, his expanded interests include local civic and political activities, his church, and hunting, fishing, sporting clays and golfing, as well as historical research and writing on the U.S. Army during the 50 years before the Civil War. In quasi-retirement Sandy's public service continued as a member of the Huerfano County Planning Commission, the boards of the La Veta Fire Protection District, Huerfano County Mineral Lease District (president), Huerfano County Water Conservancy District (president), treasurer of the La Veta United Methodist Church, facilitator of the community's interdenominational Couples Bible Study, and chair of the Huerfano County Republicans as well as of the Arkansas Basin Roundtable.
